Summary

In a 11 October statement, Naturgy says its technical teams keep working non-stop to repair earthquake damage and restore power where it is still out. Aftershocks force temporary stops to work at height, and access problems delay brigades in some communities.

Panama, Sunday 11 October 2026. We inform our customers that our technical teams continue working without interruption to attend to the damage caused by the strong earthquake in Panama and to restore electricity supply in the areas that still have interruptions. The aftershocks that continue to be recorded are an added challenge for recovery work, especially tasks requiring work at height. To safeguard staff safety, these jobs must be suspended momentarily when aftershocks occur and resume as soon as safety conditions allow. In addition, in some communities access difficulties persist that limit the movement of our brigades. Our teams remain deployed and continue advancing in restoring the electricity supply, always prioritising the safety of workers and communities. We remind the public to stay away from fallen power lines, damaged poles and any damaged electrical infrastructure. To report damage or supply problems, call 800-8346 or use our digital channels.
