Summary

After pensioners protested in Panama City over delays, the Ministry of Economy and Finance said CEPANIM certificate delivery resumes on 13 October, and that people in Chiriqui who missed appointments on 9 or 12 October have the whole week to collect them. Mi Diario reports delivery stays suspended in Veraguas, Coclé, Los Santos and Herrera.

Details (summary of the article)

Mi Diario reports that on the morning of Monday 12 October a group of pensioners protested on Avenida Balboa in Panama City over delays in handing out the CEPANIM (negotiable certificates for late-payment interest), suspended after the 9 October earthquake; riot units moved in to clear the road. The Ministry of Economy and Finance then published a new schedule. Delivery restarts on Tuesday 13 October in Panama Centro at the Megápolis Outlets and AVESA building sites. Those whose appointments fell on Friday 9 or Monday 12 October have been rescheduled to Wednesday 14 October at their original time slot, and at Megápolis the certificates will also be available for the rest of the week. Service also resumes in Darién, Colón, Panamá Oeste, Chiriquí and Bocas del Toro, where anyone who missed the two dates has all week to complete the procedure at the enabled points. In Veraguas, Coclé, Los Santos and Herrera attention remains suspended until facilities are cleared as safe, with no date yet announced.
