Summary

SINAPROC says the prevention advisory for moderate to very heavy rain and thunderstorms remains in force nationwide until 25 October 2026, with green preventive alert covering Chiriquí including the highlands.

Details (summary of the article)

SINAPROC reported on 22 October 2026 that the national prevention advisory for rain and storms remains valid until 25 October 2026. Yellow alert stays in the districts of Soná and Mariato (Veraguas) and Tonosí (Los Santos), while other provinces and comarcas, including Chiriquí, remain under preventive green alert. IMHPA attributes the conditions to a low-pressure system over the northwest Caribbean interacting with the monsoon trough, drawing moisture into the country, mainly affecting the Caribbean slope and central and eastern regions. Rain may cause flooding, flash rises of rivers and streams, overflows and landslides, especially where soils are saturated. Emergency Operations Centres remain active. Advice: do not cross rivers, streams or flooded streets, stay away from riverbanks and unstable slopes, secure roofs and loose objects, and follow official channels. Call 911 in an emergency.
