The monthly Boquete Weather Watchers bulletin for October 2026 is now available. Lloyd Cripe announced through the News Boquete mailing list that the October data and Update no. 211 have been posted on boqueteweather.com, where readers can find them through the site's Quick page. The update is compiled from rainfall measured by volunteer observers at stations spread across Boquete and the surrounding highlands, so totals vary noticeably from one neighbourhood to another. The announcement itself does not quote figures, so residents who want the station-by-station totals and year-to-date comparisons should open the links on the Boquete Weather site. The series has run for many years and is the main local reference for how wet a month has been in different parts of the district.
