Details (summary of the article)

As reported by Mi Diario, the Chiriqui campus of the Universidad Especializada de las Américas (Udelas) held its graduation ceremony for the 2025-2026 class, handing diplomas to 391 new graduates. Their degrees covered Special Education and Pedagogy, Medical and Clinical Sciences, secondary-school teaching and Integral Teaching in Special Education, the last of these producing the largest group of graduates. Women made up the clear majority: 293 graduates (74.9%) against 98 men (25.1%). Rector Nicolasa Terreros Barrios praised the training the graduates received and said the scientific, ethical and human foundations laid by the faculty had fallen on fertile ground. She stressed that Udelas graduates should be distinguished by a defence of human dignity, particularly in serving the most vulnerable groups. The new professionals now enter the labour market, with the university expecting them to contribute to the development of Chiriqui province.
