The government began demolishing and rebuilding homes destroyed by the 9 October earthquake in El Jacinto, Veraguas, from Wednesday 14 October, announced during a ministerial tour on 13 October.

Details (summary of the article)

SINAPROC reported that from Wednesday 14 October the national government started demolishing collapsed houses and building new ones in the community of El Jacinto, Veraguas, destroyed by the earthquake of Friday 9 October. The announcement came during a tour on 13 October by Government Minister Dinoska Montalvo with Deputy Housing Minister Fernando Mendez, who inspected damaged homes one by one and spoke with affected residents. The Housing Ministry (Miviot), working with the Government Ministry and other institutions, is moving construction materials into the communities to intervene as quickly as possible. The minister said some houses were totally collapsed and must be demolished and rebuilt. The officials then travelled to Pese in Herrera province, where damage surveys are under way and temporary options are being sought for families while their homes are rebuilt.
