Summary

Ericka, 41, missing since Friday 9 October, was found dead on Monday 12 October under a bridge in the Varital stream in David. Preliminary findings point to natural causes, not homicide.

Details (summary of the article)

Mi Diario reports that the search for Ericka, a 41-year-old woman with a disability who had been missing since Friday 9 October, ended when her body was found in the Varital stream in David, Chiriquí. The discovery was made on Monday, under the stream's bridge. SINAPROC and Institute of Forensic Medicine (IMELCF) teams worked about three hours in the rain to recover the body. Public Ministry investigators have since advanced enquiries into how she died. Preliminary analysis rules out homicide or any other criminal act, and points instead to a possible natural cause. Further forensic work is expected to clarify what happened before she was found. The case had kept many in Chiriquí following the search for several days.
